

Acquire the Fire is a Christian youth conference hosted by Teen Mania. This year the event takes place on December 3rd-4th and consists of speakers, skits, and concerts. To find out more, including the bands, speakers, and theme, please visit: www.acquirethefire.com/phoenix

Important Parent-type Details:

We will be leaving the church (Abiding in Christ, located at 7335 N. Camino de Oeste) at 4pm on Friday, December 3rd. Please note that we will not be stopping for dinner. So please either eat ahead of time or bring “dinner” with you. Also note that we will be providing snacks during the event as well as all three meals on Saturday. We will return home sometime around midnight on Saturday, December 4th. We’ll be spending Friday night at Orangewood church in Phoenix. The cost for this event is $50, which includes gas and 3 meals. Please make checks payable to Abiding in Christ Fellowship with “ATF” in the memo. You can contact my wife or me at 579-8527.

Important Teen-type details:

- Things to bring
 - Sleeping bag and pillow, light jacket, toothbrush, etc.
 - Spending money if you want stuff like snacks and souvenirs. (Dude that is a weird-looking word! Good thing I have spell-check, because I wasn’t even close...).
- Things not to bring
 - The obvious things... knives, drugs, superpowers, nun-chucks, ninja throwing stars, Chuck Norris and Mr. T (because we know what happens if they are both in the same building at the same time...). You guys know what is appropriate and what isn’t. If not, ask me.
- Various rules
 - You can bring your Ipods and cell phones, but I don’t want to see them out during the event.
 - I don’t care who you’re dating or for how long, this is a 100% no PDA event. Seriously. It’s a long walk home. And it’s not very scenic either.
 - At Orangewood where we will spend the night on Friday, the guys will sleep in one room and the girls in another. And it will stay that way until we leave in the morning.